

Adverbial Clauses: Explanation and Examples

An adverbial clause is a dependent (or subordinate) clause that modifies a verb, adjective, or adverb in the main clause. It provides information about when, where, why, how, to what extent, or under what condition something happens.

Each type of adverbial clause begins with a subordinating conjunction and must be attached to a main clause to make sense. Below are the major types, along with fresh examples.

1. Time Clause (Answers When?)

These clauses indicate when an action happens.

Conjunctions: after, before, when, while, as, until, as soon as, since

Examples:

We will start the meeting when everyone arrives.

After the sun sets, it becomes colder.

She has been waiting since the show ended.

2. Place Clause (Answers Where?)

These clauses show where an action takes place.

Conjunctions: where, wherever, anywhere

Examples:

Sit wherever you find a free chair.

He went where the noise was coming from.
